

ELLENVILLE HIT BY CLOUDBURST

Houses Swept From Their Foundations, People Rescued From Inundated Houses, Barns Struck by Lightning and Immense Damage Done.

The worst cloudburst in the history of Ulster county occurred in the Shawangunk mountains above Ellenville Sunday afternoon at one o'clock, and fifteen minutes later torrents of water poured down the gorge at the head of Baxter street, sweeping away two houses, one of which was completely demolished, and lifting other houses and barns from their foundations. Flood conditions continued until late Sunday night and today the lower part of Baxter street still forms the new bed of the stream, whose fury has abated but which still flows with the swiftness of a mountain torrent in time of freshet.

The cloudburst was accompanied by a severe electrical storm, and while the flood was still sweeping through part of the town, lightning struck a barn in another section of the town in the afternoon one of the houses which had been partially wrecked by the flood caught fire.

No lives were lost at Ellenville, but at Kerhonkson a New York boarder lost his life when he drove a horse and wagon off the abutment of the bridge over Mombaccus creek, and into the swift current which flowed over the roadway and bridge approaches. His body had not been recovered up to this afternoon.

Washouts occurred in several places on the road between Accord and Ellenville, and several bridges were washed away. The state road in the vicinity of Kerhonkson is closed but it is expected it will be opened tomorrow.

The New York, Ontario & Western Railroad lost a total of about five hundred feet of track, and railroad communication with Ellenville is cut off from the direction of Kingston and Centerville.

Topography Favored Flood. The topographical formation of the mountains on the east of Ellenville favored the flood when it came pouring down the mountain sides and through the gorge through which flows what is known locally as the North Gully Brook.

The mountains lie east of Ellenville, and the village nestles at their feet. The nearest point to the almost perpendicular rise of the mountain nearest Ellenville from the Ellenville railroad station is about a quarter of a mile. The street which crosses the railroad track at a right angle at the station is Canal street, and it leads directly to the mountain.

Several other streets are parallel to Canal street and they, too, lead to the mountain. From the railroad track to the mountain grade of the streets is steep. At the end of Canal street the road bends to the left and is the highway which leads to Cragsmore, to Sam's Point and to Newburgh.

About a hundred feet beyond the bend, the road passes over a concrete bridge under which the North Gully Brook flows. A few feet beyond, Baxter street comes into the highway. The North Gully Brook in its natural course flows almost parallel with Canal and Baxter streets and between them. Its natural course is to the left and it flows into Sandburgh creek, a short distance from the railroad station. Sandburgh creek is the stream which flows through Ellenville between the railroad station and Supervisor W. Kelly Shook's feed store.

There are other mountain streams north and south of North Gully Brook, but they do not enter Ellenville.

North Gully Brook flows through a cleft in the rocks and the deep ravine, which extends back in the distance, for a considerable distance. The stream accommodates the overflow from the Ellenville reservoir, which is situated about a hundred feet up the ravine, and can be located from the railroad station side—the only bare spot among the mass of foliage which covers the mountain as far as the eye can see.

Warning Telephoned From the Mountain. The highway described, which leads to Cragsmore, twists and turns for several miles as it mounts constantly higher toward the top of the mountain, on whose summit is situated the large boarding house of the Messrs. Terwilliger, known as Mount Menagha. Back of Mount Menagha is Mount Mongola, and there are other equally well known resorts which accommodate hundreds of boarders in the summer season.

While the distance to these places from Ellenville is several miles by road, it is comparatively short distance by the line of the North Gully Brook, which rises away back into the mountains and takes a devious course before it launches its frothing surge into the gully at the head of Baxter street.

Rain fell intermittently in Ellenville during the morning. About 1 o'clock in the afternoon the clouds gathered heavily over the mountains above Ellenville, but further west—in the direction of Cragsmore and Mount Mongola—they came together from different directions, until it seemed to the people living here that the floodgates had been opened for the last time and that they were about to witness a second deluge.

who realized the result of the immense quantity of water being precipitated into the little brook telephoned the fact of the cloudburst to the village. It was several minutes before anyone could reach the Baxter street section, and by the time the word had reached there, the residents already had been warned by the noise of rocks and trees as they were torn loose and hurled and carried down the narrow ravine.

Flood's Warning Five Minutes Ahead of Its Arrival. People living along Baxter street were in their houses when the cloudburst occurred. They heard a roar the resembled thunder and some of them felt instinctively that a flood was rising rapidly. They supposed, however, that the brook would be able to carry off any flood which might come, but they could not understand what caused the noise, which increased momentarily in volume and intensity as the flood neared the village.

William Myers, who lives half way down Baxter street, stood in his doorway but an instant before he realized what the noise meant, but he had no idea that the brook would overflow its banks and for himself and his house he had a feeling of entire safety.

His only idea was for his two sons, who had left the house a few minutes before to walk to the end of the street and watch the rapidly rising water from the DeWitt bridge, on Clinton avenue, which crosses the foot of Baxter street. When he reached the bridge Mr. Myers found nearly a hundred people there. Most of them were men and young boys.

"Run for your lives," he shouted. Someone asked him where there was danger in standing on the bridge and in a few seconds he explained that there was danger not only of the bridge being washed away, but that in case the brook overflowed its banks and spread to the south, they would be caught like rats in a trap, marooned on the bridge.

The crowd heeded his warning and ran. The ominous sound from the gully had by this time become louder. It was as if the rocks were being ground together, and occasionally a crackling sound was carried by the wind over all the other noises and seemed as if trees were being splintered by some huge force.

Warned Neighbors, Rescued His Wife. Then Mr. Myers ran up the street toward his own house, which he realized was in danger. In an upper bed room was his wife, who recently was removed to her home from the Benedictine Sanitarium, in this city, where she underwent a serious operation. He wrapped blankets around her and carried her downstairs. As he looked out of the front door, he saw a stream of water nearly four feet deep flowing swiftly down the hillside, from gutter to gutter, bearing logs, trees and huge quantities of splintered wood on its surface. Less than five minutes before he had heard the first sound which warned him of the danger.

From his porch, he ran to the rear yard, then climbed a fence and ran through neighboring yards, sometimes stumbling over logs and branches of trees which were being carried through strangely incongruous surroundings by the swift current. A barbed wire fence was encountered, and he lifting his wife over it. Mr. Myers ran one of the bars into his right thumb, but he never gave up the fight, and he continued to run with his precious burden, striving always to seek higher levels, until finally the water no longer washed over his shoes, and he reached the home of a family on the upper highway, out of the way of danger. Mr. Myers today is in critical condition from her experience.

Myers' Warning Saved Many. Myers' warning undoubtedly saved many lives. The alarm he shouted through the streets as he dashed madly to his own home was needed by all who heard him. The warning scarcely had been given before the water began running down the street from the bridge.

Looking from her parlor window, one woman of the neighborhood saw a solid stream bursting through the arched culvert beneath the bridge. An instant later water was pouring over the top of the bridge and rushing madly down the street. She escaped by a rear door, ran across fields and then followed the upland course of the fields until she reached safety.

The water came, with incredible fury. On the crest of the huge wave that seemed to rise in an instant out of the ground were trees whose roots touched the fence along one side of the street and whose branches swept loose the pickets from fences on the opposite side.

The men and women who had run from their houses across the already-flooded lots to higher ground had made their dash for safety none too soon. It seemed but an instant before the flood had reached the windows of the lower floors of the houses along the street and then trees bigger and longer than any which grew in the neighborhood were hurled into the air and fell like giant fists upon the heads of the people who were still on the ground.

At one o'clock a cloudburst occurred at Mount Mongola. Someone

GERARD WILL BE RECALLED

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, Aug. 23.—Germany must either disavow the sinking of the Arabic or make a satisfactory explanation of why the liner fell victim to her submarine war. Otherwise the United States will recall Ambassador Gerard and break off diplomatic and commercial relations with the Teutonic empire.

Officials who are in the confidence of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing were authority today for the statement that this much of the new Wilson program has been decided on. The president and Secretary Lansing are agreed, it is stated, that the information shows that the Arabic was torpedoed under circumstances which constitute, if not contrived or explained, a "deliberately unfriendly act."

They also are agreed, it is stated on authority, that if the United States is to maintain her prestige as a world power she must act. "The whole thing is up to Germany," explained a cabinet officer today. The United States has made many concessions for peace. In the light of his original warning when the submarine warfare was decreed by Admiral Vontpritz, President Wilson would have been justified, when the Lusitania was torpedoed with the heavy toll of American lives in immediately severing diplomatic relations. But he did not adhere to the latter of the warning in his original note. Instead he threw the entire affair into the channels of diplomatic exchanges.

Then he became convinced that Germany was not going to yield and ended the exchanges with another warning, even more emphatic than the first.

Now, if all the information received shows the loss of two American lives on the Arabic constituted the "deliberately unfriendly act" which Germany has been warned will not be tolerated, the president must act. He will, however, the German opportunity to explain, young boys.

"Run for your lives," he shouted. Someone asked him where there was danger in standing on the bridge and in a few seconds he explained that there was danger not only of the bridge being washed away, but that in case the brook overflowed its banks and spread to the south, they would be caught like rats in a trap, marooned on the bridge.

THE SUBMARINE ZONE OFF SOUTH COAST OF IRELAND.

Here is shown a part of the so-called "submarine zone" with the spot marked where the Lusitania and more recently Arabic were sent to the bottom by German submarines. In this region seven ships have been attacked and American lives have been lost in each one. The ships were: The Falaba, sunk, 100 drowned, including one American. The Cushing, attacked by German aeroplanes, Americans seriously injured. The Guilford, torpedoed, three of her crew lost. The Lusitania, sunk, more than a thousand lost, including more than 100 Americans. The Nebraska, torpedoed, Americans seriously injured. Armenian, shelled and sunk, several lives lost. Arabic, torpedoed and sunk, two American lives lost.

MORE MARINES ARE GOING TO HAITI

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, Aug. 23.—Three hundred and fifty more marines will be sent to Haiti the last of this week, it was definitely learned today. The cruiser Tennessee reached Norfolk, Va., today. It will go to Annapolis to take aboard the marines, who comprise three companies of the artillery service. It will then go to Philadelphia to get equipment and leave for Haiti immediately afterward.

Admiral Caperton reported today that he had formally taken over the custom house at St. Marc. Marines now have charge of the custom houses at all principal Haiti ports. It is believed here that Admiral Caperton intends using the additional marines to sent this week to wipe out the rebel interior it pointed out that artillery bands in the equipment would not be needed unless service in the interior is planned. The machine guns already in Haiti will suffice for shore duty.

OBREGON TRIES TO CRUSH VILLA. As a result Villa is expected to attempt during this week to regain some of his recently lost prestige as a military commander. If Obregon can crush Villa, then the efforts of the administration to restore peace in Mexico would be materially simplified. The Carranzista junta here today was claiming that Obregon would be able to do so, inasmuch as he now has available an army that outnumbered Villa's forces two to one. It is expected that the impending battle will be fought before any further sessions of the Latin-American state department conferences are held. It has been decided that the ten day period for reply shall commence with the delivery of the last invitation to the Mexican factionalists and latest advices to the state department indicate that the last delivery probably was made on Saturday, although this is not yet certain. Charges that the conferees were endeavoring to cause a break between Obregon and Carranza by offering to accept the former as provisional president if elected by a peace conference, are being fathered by sources close to the Carranzista junta here.

State department officials declined today to discuss this report. It is known however, that Obregon would be eminently satisfactory to the majority of the South American diplomats as he is highly educated and as good a statesman as he had proved to be a soldier. Latest reports from the border and Vera Cruz describe conditions there as "very quiet."

Uriah Van Kleeck got drunk on Sunday and was unable to take care of himself and was taken in tow by Policeman Daun. Uriah was discharged with a reprimand.

Texaco Ready For Business. The Texas Oil Company announces the opening of its new station in this city and that it is ready for distribution of the products of the concern. F. W. Gallagher is the local agent.

German Destroyer Sunk. By Telegraph to The Freeman. Paris, Aug. 23.—A German destroyer was sunk by French torpedo boats in a battle off Ostend last night, the ministry of marine acknowledged. While patrolling the Belgian coast two torpedo boats of the second light French naval squadron encountered the German destroyer and immediately engaged it. The official announcement says that the torpedo boats suffered no loss in men and only slight damage to their hulls was inflicted by the German vessel.

Auto Speeders Fined. Two more automobile speeders were arrested on Sunday by Police Officer O'Neil. The first was Hildreth Lezatte who was driving his machine on Broadway at the rate of 26 miles an hour. He was fined $3 which he paid. Louis Bloomfield of New York city who was also speeding paid a fine of $3.

Ice House Burned. The ice house of John Walker was struck by lightning Sunday morning about 1:45 o'clock and was completely destroyed by the fire which resulted. The ice house is situated on what is known as "Reator's Binnell-kill." When the fire was discovered the flames had gained considerable headway and there were no means at the hands of Mr. Walker to combat the fire. The building was twenty-six feet high and there was no opportunity to reach the top. The ice house was more than half full of ice and Mr. Walker estimated his loss this morning at $4,000, which included the complete loss of the house and the ice it contained. There were 750 tons of ice in the building.

Millen's Case Adjudged. When the case of Barney Millen, the Meadow street junk dealer, charged with receiving stolen goods, was called in recorder's court this morning Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for Mr. Millen and Mayor Canfield for the Consolidated Railway Company and at the request of the attorneys Recorder adjudged the trial to September 2.

Moontlight Sail. The Epworth League of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will conduct a moonlight sail down the Hudson tonight. The steamer Gardner will leave the dock at 7 o'clock sharp, re-appearing in time for the last car. There will be no landing on this sail. Just a sail down the river and return. Refreshments will be on sale.

Pinic at Evergreen Park. The Sunday School of the Church of the Comforter on Wynkoop place will hold its annual picnic at Evergreen Park Sept. 3. Arrangements have been made with the owner of the steam yacht Shultz to take the school to the park. The yacht leaves the dock on Ferry street at 9:30 and 10:45 a. m. and makes its regular trips all day. Ice cream will be served free to the school. Lunch may be taken and may be bought on the grounds. There are, at the Park, different amusements which will help to make the day a pleasant one and games will be played by the school. Evergreen Park is an ideal place for a picnic and it is hoped that the school will take advantage of this day and attend in large numbers.

Leases Kingston Hotel. Leslie Flowers of the Eagle Will Assume Management. Leslie Flowers, for years clerk and steward at the Eagle Hotel, has leased the Kingston Hotel on Crown street, for many years conducted by Frank Cronk, and will take possession early in September. Mr. Flowers will make extensive improvements to the building but will run the hotel along the same lines which have made it so popular under Mr. Cronk's management. An a la carte service after eight o'clock in the evening will be added for the benefit of automobilists and the traveling public. Practically all the help who have been with Mr. Cronk will be retained and the same familiar faces will be seen about the hotel. Mr. Flowers has a host of friends who wish him the greatest success in his new enterprise.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

London—British foreign office states Arabic unarmed when it was sunk by German submarine; that it was attacked without warning and made no attempt to attack submarine or to escape.

Washington—United States will recall Ambassador Gerard and break off diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany unless Berlin Government makes satisfactory explanation of torpedoing of Arabic.

Petrograd—Admiral Ty confirms sinking of German dreadnought by British submarine in gulf of Riga. Russian warships sank or damaged two German cruisers and eight torpedo boats. Russian gunboats sunk.

Paris—German destroyer sunk by French torpedo boats off Ostend. French captured more German trenches in Vosges and French aviators bombarding railways between Lille and Douai.

Berlin—Russians making determined effort to defend Brest-Litovsk from German attacks. Teutonic allies hammering away at Russian lines north of fortress.

RUSSIANS MAKE STUBBORN STAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Berlin, Aug. 23.—That the Russians are going to make a mighty effort to hold the fortress of Brest Litovsk, the pivot of their second line, is shown by official dispatches from the front. It is estimated that the Russians are using 150,000 men to defend Brest Litovsk, not counting the troops in the fortress garrison. It is officially announced that the Teutonic allies in front of Brest Litovsk are meeting with "the most severe resistance." North and west of the fortress the Austro-German armies under Prince Leopold of Bavaria and Archduke Joseph Ferdinand, of Austria, are hammering away at the Russian line, while south of the stronghold the armies under the immediate command of Field Marshal von Mackensen are slowly pushing their way up the valley of the Bug river. Fighting of the most savage nature is going on over a front 100 miles long, stretching in a semi-circle in front of Brest Litovsk from Bielsk in the north to Vidovava in the south. Progress of the Teutonic allies is reported from Wlasko Litovsk, twenty-five miles northwest of Brest Litovsk, where Austro-Hungarian troops are valiantly supporting the Germans.

The German army, 75,000 strong, that took Novo Georgievsk, is already moving eastward to reinforce the Austro-German troops that are pounding away at the second line of the Russians. Only sufficient men were left behind to maintain a nominal garrison, repair the forts and take charge of the booty, which is being sorted and shipped to Posen. General von Beseler, conqueror of Antwerp and Novo Georgievsk, who has become known as "42 centimetre von Beseler," because he is always put in command where a powerful fortress is to be reduced by the biggest German and Austrian guns, is preparing to join forces further east. If Brest Litovsk is invested and the Austro-German armies sweep on past it, von Beseler will probably be given the job of smashing the great Russian forts to kindling wood. Progress is also reported for the German forces of field Marshal von Hindenburg east of Kovno, but the deadlock in Galicia continues with no developments in that quarter.

STEAMER ARABIC WAS NOT ARMED. London, Aug. 23.—To shatter any defense that Germany might attempt to offer for the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, the British foreign office today issued an official statement setting forth these four facts:

1.—The Arabic was not armed for defense or offense. 2.—The Arabic was torpedoed without warning. 3.—The Arabic made no attempt to attack a submarine. 4.—The Arabic made no attempt to escape.

Attaches of the foreign office believe that the facts officially set forth will prove that the destruction of the Arabic by a German submarine was contrary to the notes "President Wilson has sent to Berlin."

The information herewith given will probably be used by the United States government in any communication sent to Germany relative to the Arabic. It involves the four vital facts upon which the American government would act.

SHUTTING OFF TURKEY'S SUPPLIES. London, Aug. 23.—A dispatch from Sofia stating that Roumania had held up munitions of war consigned to Turkey by Austria gave a further indication today of the trend of developments in the Balkans, but Athens reports that Premier Venizelos had decided to adopt a policy of "benevolent neutrality" were displeasing to the British press. Venizelos had been looked upon as the man who would remove doubt among the Balkan nations by taking a firm stand for the allies. That he had not done so was taken in some quarters here today as an indication that Germany's influence is still strong with King Constantine. Roumania's action is considered as a flat defiance of the demand of the Teutonic powers that the Bucharest Government permit the passage of war munitions through its territory to Turkey. That Turkey lacks munitions is the general belief here and if the supply from the Teutonic allies is completely cut off the Turkish army will soon be in desperate straits.

FRUIT STEAMER GIVEN UP FOR LOST. New Orleans, La., Aug. 23.—The missing United Fruit liner Marowine was given up for lost with 28 passengers and a crew of 65 in marine circles here today. Though the gulf coast is being searched for some trace of the vessel which is believed to have been destroyed by the recent storm, little hope is entertained that any of the 93 persons on board are alive. Among the passengers were Commander J. H. Holden of the United States navy, Arturo Beltrano, member of the Argentine Diplomatic Corps, and Edwin Tobey, a St. Louis specialist.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—In the Heavy Parts Mother Is Quite a Success

BY F. LEOPOLD.

Almost a Tragedy

The banquet feast was set to view—
The guests all seated by,
While o'er the tempting viands spread
Raved many an eager eye.

When, just as all seemed ready, then
The hostess entered, pale,
And reeled against a hungry guest,
While all words seemed to fail.

"What's up? What's up?" full 12 arose,
While others sat quite dumb;
She gasped and gulped in panic tones:
"Barmann's Beer has not yet come."

Like leaden hail, her words struck hard—
Just then the door bell rang—
The hostess, like wild winds, swept out;
The door closed with a bang!

But, ah, she comes! New bottles gleam!
Out reach extended arms.
"You seem to prefer," she said, relieved,
"The beer that never harms."

TUESDAY IS "GLAD DAY" IN HIGHLAND

"Glad Day" will be celebrated on Tuesday by residents of Highland and the town of Lloyd, who will show the appreciation of the completion of opening the new Highland-Highland Landing state road. All arrangements are in charge of a committee of which W. E. Wilcox is chairman and Byron Clearwater is secretary.

The day's celebration will open with a parade at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and nearly all the automobiles and carriages in the town of Lloyd will take part in the parade. The line of march will be from Highland village to Highland Landing and return. The parade will be followed by speeches and a dinner.

Supervisor Philip Schantz was in town today and invited all the county officials to visit Highland and take part in the "Glad Day" celebration. Poughkeepsie residents, who make frequent use of the Highland-Highland Landing road, are joining the town of Lloyd residents in the celebration over the opening of the new state road, and many Kingstonians undoubtedly will also join the celebration also, as the new highway is one of the most important and most traveled roads in the county.

The completion and opening of the new road will give satisfaction to everyone who has occasion to use it, and the celebration of "Glad Day" will be particularly heartfelt by the people who have worked for a long time for its successful construction.

BATHING AT THE POINT.

Popularity of the Beach is Growing Daily.

The large crowds that attend the Kingston Point Beach daily to enjoy a swim or to sit on the beach and watch the bathers have nothing but words of praise for the manner in which the beach is being conducted under the management of the Kingston Point Bathing Association. A number of improvements are being made for the comfort of the bathers and the spectators. Benches are being placed about the beach for the comfort of the spectators and the beach will hereafter be raked daily in order to remove the number of stones which are washed up by the tide. The management has been fortunate enough to secure the services of former Jailer and Probation Officer Martin W. Golden. Mr. Golden will preserve law and order at the beach, although in the past there has been no need for such services, the crowds having been orderly and respectable. Mr. Golden has not yet been seen as to his attitude on bathing suits and the Freeman is not able to say whether he will also be a censor of the same. With all these improvements it will only be a short time before the beach will be a rival of the Atlantic City and Asbury Park beaches.

Renovating the Bijou.

Workmen have been busy for the past few days renovating and redecorating the interior of the Bijou theater. The walls have been painted a beautiful shade of pink with a decorative border of dark blue. The effect is sure to delight the eye of the connoisseur of color harmony. The old seats have been removed and modern seats are being installed. New scenery is being painted by a noted scene painter and the theater will look more spic and span than ever before when it opens on Monday, August 30. Manager Warner intends to offer his patrons during the coming season the best vaudeville and pictures that the Bijou has ever known.

Poughkeepsie Population.

With a growth of 4,144 during the past five years, the city of Poughkeepsie has a present population of 32,080, according to the official census figures given out Saturday, by Francis M. Hugo, secretary of state, in connection with his address at the Republican Day clambake. Women's Feet Growing Smaller.

The sex will rejoice to hear that an English scientist declares that women's feet are growing smaller. He claims that a study of former types of feet goes to prove that the feet of modern people are more shapely than those of their ancestors or those of the savage races. Perhaps, after all, the mistake of ill-fitting shoes have not seriously deformed the general type of foot.

A Watch That Is Seen but Not Heard.

If a watch or a small clock is to be kept on a table by a sick bed, a good plan is to cover the watch or clock with a tumbler. It will then be seen, but not heard.

CLODBURST HITS ELLENVILLE

grow along the beautiful streets of Ellenville began to pour out of the narrow gorge and to batter away at the houses. A huge tree struck the roof of Mr. Myers' house and knocked it all except one loose. The piazza roof, was caught in the swirling current and part of it was ripped off.

Then the street itself opened. At a point just below the bridge the water dug a channel to the south, undermined the house of Mrs. Rosencrans, which is the second house from the top of Baxter street, and an instant later the house went sailing through the back yard, over two neighboring yards, and landed with such force against a huge maple tree standing there that the house was wrecked. Trees and logs battered away at it as they were carried down by the swift current, until less than half the house remained, and that is so jumbled together that it is worthless. The cellar of the house was filled with sand and rocks, and huge boulders came down weighing two hundred pounds, completely filling the yard and covering the fence. To find the foundation of the Rosencrans house, it will be necessary to remove boulders to a depth of at least three feet, and it may be said that Mrs. Rosencrans lost not only her house but her lot as well.

Pickford House Disappeared.
Diagonally across the street from the Rosencrans house was the little home of Mrs. Pickford. The force of the current was swerved from its straight-down-the-street course after striking the Rosencrans house and swerved over to the Pickford house and smashed it to pieces.

Lightning Struck Barn.
While excitement was reigning in the Baxter street section, lightning struck the barn of Newton Terwilliger in the south section. The barn and an automobile recently purchased by Mr. Terwilliger were destroyed. There was no insurance on the barn or automobile.

Fire Breaks Out.
Later in the afternoon when the rain had ceased, fire broke out in the Yarrow house on Baxter street, around which the flood was surging. From the opposite bank, Sorensen's hose company effectively used its new combination engine-truck, which was built by members of the company and which when displayed at the Ellenville fair last week attracted a great deal of attention.

Dynamite Used to Divert Stream.
Dynamite was used three times on Sunday afternoon in order to get rid of the tons of accumulated trees and debris which had been washed down the old course of the North Gully stream and formed a jam about two hundred feet below the bridge. By getting rid of this accumulation, it was hoped that the old course of the creek could be opened, and the stream would be diverted from Baxter street into its old channel.

State Road Washed Out.
The state road north of Kerhonkson and south of Accord was closed owing to washouts.

Damage May Reach $150,000.
The loss sustained through the floods in the immediate vicinity of Ellenville and the railroads will probably reach $150,000.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.
Harold A. Styles, assistant city clerk, has joined the ranks of the automobilists, having purchased a new Chevrolet car.

ODDS AND ENDS.
There will be a meeting of the Kingston Playground Association on Thursday evening at the office of Mayor Canfield at the city hall at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

All-Kingstons Beat Mohawk.
Mohawk, Lake, Aug. 21.—The All-Kingstons, who describe themselves as "local professionals and champions of Ulster county," suffered no loss of reputation here today, defeating Mohawk 10 to 6 in a long game in which errors on both sides. Both pitchers were hit hard, although Volgt fanned twelve men and Overton, the greatest success of the visitors in bunching hits and their superior base running was largely responsible for the result.

Street Force Busy.
Street Superintendent Van Keuren has a force of men busy today installing water and sewers, and a drinking fountain as well as erecting a stand and placing benches in Fourth Park, Joy's Woods. The improvements being made will be ready for use by Wednesday when the field day and basket picnic of the Clinton Avenue Sunday school will be held on the grounds.

Boric Acid for Styes.
Boric acid is a mild, soothing antiseptic and is one of the best remedies known for styes. Physicians recommend bathing and soaking the affected eye for half an hour twice a day in a warm saturated solution of mercuric iodine in vaseline.

Pests Always With Us.

RESULTS OF RECENT CAUCUSES

Unofficial Republican caucuses were held in the various wards in the city and the election districts of the county on Saturday evening and were very largely attended in every instance. There were contests in several wards of the city where younger members of the party wanted to break in on the older men but in every instance the older men won, receiving in this manner a tribute to their past conduct in public service. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 23.—The tone and price movement in the early trading on the Stock Exchange today were dominated by the action of the United States Steel common. The first sales of that stock were 15,000 shares from 70 1/2 to 70 against 70 1/2 at the close Saturday. In the next few minutes there was an upturn on vigorous buying to 71 1/2. The strength of this stock was reflected by a higher range of prices in nearly all the important issues. Crucible Steel started unchanged at 68 1/2 and rose to 71 1/2 and Great Northern Ore opened down 1/4 and then rose to 4 1/4. Anaconda moved up 1/4 to 67 1/2 and Union Copper made an advance of 1/2 to 55. Union Pacific rose 1/4 to 128 1/2, but lost this gain in the next few minutes. Studebaker gained 1/2 to 102 1/2 and then reacted a point.

The stock market closed strong. Governments unchanged, others bonds strong.

JUDGE COCHRANE RECOMMENDED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Aug. 23.—Justice V. S. Cochrane of Hudson was recommended as the candidate of the Republican party for justice of the supreme court at a meeting here today of a committee representing that party of the third judicial district. The speech of recommendation was made by former Justice Alphonso T. Clearwater of Kingston.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A dance was given at McNamee's Hall, Eddyville, on Friday evening, by a number of young men from Kingston, under the leadership of George H. Muller Jr., was indeed a great success. It was said that the largest crowd that ever attended a dance at this popular hall was present at this dance. Five auto parties from Kingston attended the dance, and so excellent was the music, and so pleasant a time was enjoyed that the musicians were obliged to play until 1 o'clock instead of 12 as they had expected to do. The musicians were George H. Muller, Jr., Miss S. Joseph, John Schick, Preston DuBois, Louis Schon and Clyde Hornbeck, and they wish to publicly thank the people both of Eddyville and Kingston for their generous patronage of the dance, which was such a social and financial success.

Turkey Arrest Italians.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, Aug. 23.—Press dispatches from Athens and Salonika state that Italian subjects in Turkey are now being arrested by hundreds and cast into filthy jails. The Italian legation at Athens has heard a rumor that the Italian ambassador to Turkey was threatened by a mob and that several windows in the embassy were smashed.

Ed's Deadly Blood.
It infected into man, the blood of an eel causes death almost immediately. This should deter no one from eating the fish, however, for the heat of cooking destroys the toxic properties of its blood and besides that blood is practically harmless when taken into the stomach.

THE FIRST TELEGRAM.

It Was Not the Famous Message Sent by Morse's Daughter.
Hidden away in the archives of the Tennessee Historical society at Nashville is the account of the first actual message ever sent over a telegraph line. That dispatch differs materially from the solemn message that passed over the wire between Washington and Baltimore in the year 1844. It illustrates well, however, the lack of seriousness with which Mr. Morse's invention was taken when he first offered it to the world.

According to the account preserved at Nashville, Hon. Robert L. Caruthers of Lebanon, Tenn., was a member of Congress in 1843, and a member of the committee to which was referred Mr. Morse's application for an appropriation to build a telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore. Most of the members of the committee looked upon Morse as a visionary, and his proposal as impracticable.

On the last day of the session Morse went to the committee room and told them that he had stretched a wire to the top of the capitol building and had a young man up there. If they would write a message he would send it up, and the young man would bring them a copy of it. None of them believed it could be done. Judge Caruthers, however, pulled the envelope of a letter out of his pocket and wrote a message. Mr. Morse, who had his instrument with him, sat down and sent the message. In a few minutes the young man walked into the room with an exact copy of the message. The committee reported favorably, and recommended the appropriation.

The bill passed just before the adjournment. Some one went to Mr. Morse's boarding house to inform him that the appropriation was made. The daughter of the landlady went to Mr. Morse's room, waked him and gave him the welcome news. He said to her, "My daughter, you shall send the first message that goes from Washington to Baltimore." That promise was fulfilled when she sent the famous message: "What hath God wrought?"

Judge Caruthers was an ardent Whig, and in 1843 the Whigs were very angry with President Tyler, whom they accused of betraying the party. The message that Judge Caruthers sent from the committee room to the young man at the top of the capitol was, "Tyler deserves to be hanged."—Youth's Companion.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 23, 1915.

One of the most interesting events of the last week was the propounding in the Reichstag by Dr. Karl Liebknecht, leader of the Social Democrats, of the question: "Is the Imperial Government prepared to enter into peace negotiations on the basis of abandoning all plans of annexation of conquered territory?" To this the German Foreign Minister, von Jagow, replied: "I think I have the support of the majority of the House if I decline to reply, as the moment is unsuitable." That he did have such support was shown by the fact that when Liebknecht attempted to make a speech on the subject he was hooted down. From this incident we are able to draw several conclusions.

Von Jagow was unquestionably right from the standpoint of a diplomat and politician. It is unwise and leads to embarrassment to make promises as to what one will do under unforeseen circumstances some time in the future. It now seems unlikely that either of the combination of hostile nations will be utterly crushed in the struggle, so that peace when it does come will be the result of compromise. Both sides will naturally demand more than they expect to get, so that there will be opportunity for bargaining, and Germany will, of course, at the start insist on annexation of the territory she has conquered, if at that time any of it remains in her possession. Therefore, the Lokai Anzeiger was justified when it called Liebknecht's query "A silly question."

Nevertheless, while none of the diplomats are going to commit themselves after the Liebknecht prescription, they are certainly lying awake nights thinking over this very question. The manifesto recently issued by the Socialistic groups in the Reichstag hits the nail on the head when it says: "Every infringement by force of the autonomy and independence of a people contains the germs of future wars and implies in itself a dangerous coalition of enemies against Germany." All the European peoples are very weary of the war by this time, and few of the Governments, if any, would dare to make a peace of a nature which would be sure to bring about a new and even bloodier war within a few years. On the other hand, the various Governments have been telling their peoples that the enemy will in the end have to pay the bills. Since no nation will have any money at the end of the war and will have levied taxes to the limit of endurance, cash indemnities will be out of the question, and payment by the vanquished can be made only in territory. If the contest ends in a draw, which is also possible, all will have to pay their own bills, and the various Governments will be called upon to explain why they wasted so much life and treasure for nothing.

The Kaiser does not want to lose his throne, nor does the Czar. The dominant politicians in England and France want to hang on to their power. Yet all of their class have read history and know what is to be expected when the common people—so patient ordinarily—are aroused to fury. The Government idol of today becomes the scapegoat of tomorrow. Consequently, these rulers are afraid to make peace. They know that some of them are going to be deposed, but each wants the other to be the victim. They think more about this than about the welfare of their several countries, just as all the kings, crowned and uncrowned, have always done, human nature being now the same as ever. These considerations must be foreign to the minds of the prophets who are predicting a speedy end to the war. Before it is terminated conditions will have been altered in great respects by events none of us is bold enough to predict and which will amaze us when they come.

If the United States are dragged into the war the difficulties of making peace will not be made more complicated. We want no additional territory and will not give up any that we have. Neither is it thinkable that we should ask a cash indemnity for our military expenses, although our Government will doubtless sooner or later secure the comparatively moderate amount of damages caused by the destruction of American life and property by submarines and otherwise. Yet our participation in the strife would influence our politics for a generation to come. Just what the political effect would be cannot as yet be foreseen, but we conjecture that compared with it the Bull Moose flurry will appear to have amounted to very little.

THE WAR'S "SILVER LINING."

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Sir Gilbert Parker, one of the world's well-known makers of stories, writes from England that one of the clearing effects of what he calls "the great earthquake of war," as his country has waged it, has been the partial leveling of class distinctions in the British empire.

He says that in this war, which has been largely carried on in the trenches, men highest up have been given intimate looks at those farthest down, as society measures distances, and that in the process, eyes have been opened wide to the fact that "one touch of nature makes the whole world kin." And, more than that, that the finest traits that adorn mankind settle wherever they will, without any reference to rank or station.

He says that the duke and the ploughboy have literally touched hands; and the duke has been surprised to learn that when distinctions of dress and the like fade away, under the storm and stress of a common purpose, he is as likely as not to find the ploughboy a king in Nature's name.

And the ploughboy? As for him, when the false halo drops off from the ducal head and the man stands revealed, the ploughboy may find a real brother, a king like himself. He quotes the hundreds of stories that all of us have read, from soldiers in the ranks, stories ringing true with their recitals of self-sacrifice on the part of officers, their devotion and all that; and of the fine tributes paid by the officers, who many and many a time have found in the men in their lines—just friends, friends worthy of all that they had to give, in turn.

And he quotes a little experience of his own.

In his household, before the war-burst, was a footman, prim, precise and quite a nonentity, as all well-trained footmen should be, "without not much apparent personality or sensibility," as he puts it. Then came the baptism of fire, when men viewed each other as their Maker intended they should, stripped bare of all the false "guinea's stamp." The footman enlisted, and Sir Gilbert says he "found himself," by which he meant to convey the fact that old barriers were burned away, and that the man who bowed very low in earlier days and covered himself with needless humility now met him on common ground, talked as one human being should to another and acted quite natural, if you please.

And one wonders if Sir Gilbert did not "find himself" too, to the extent of learning that a man may fill a humble position and give never an inkling of the stuff that is in him, yet be fitted to move, hand in hand, with one who lives on a much higher level. And that the same society which exacts a certain amount of repression and subservience in the one and tolerates too much of self-satisfaction in the other needs something to shock it wide-awake to its folly.

Because in the letters that passed from the soldier at the front to the civilian striving to help his country in the hour of its peril, the one-time employer was startled to find that his footman was a man of intelligence, one whose thoughts were worth listening to and whose personal attributes were found quite worth while, once he looked back of the garb that he wore, and stepped over the old bridge of formality.

And, in passing, there are many of us here in the United States, where social distinctions are not as compelling as they are in England, who would be the wiser and perhaps the happier—surely the bigger—for the surprised realization that we may be entertaining an angel in our midst in the guise of a footman, if we have one, or the most ordinary servant of all. For strange things send some folk away up to the top, and as strange things keep others down in the ditches, figuratively speaking. One fancies that footman did not need to go through the fire of war to make him ready to look a man in the eye and to grasp him by the hand, if the man would let him, but that he made the best of an unnatural condition of society, which prompted him to act as if he had little brains, and as little sensibility.

Well, if back of the horrid war-cloud that is darkening our skies today is the silver lining of genuine democracy, the world will have to turn its clouds about, as Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler phrases it, and "wear them inside out, to show the lining." Because it is a bright spot in an otherwise deplorably black picture if "quality"-loving British folk and folk of other varieties have learned what real aristocracy means, learned through the leveling influence of drinking from the same canteen.

But it does seem that if we men and women were as big and as broad and as observing as we like to believe we are, it would not need a mighty earthquake to teach us the eternal truth that great hearts, great minds and souls may be found in the by-ways of life and that real worth has tremendously wide boundaries.

STELLA CAROL

LITTLE LONDON STREET SINGER
A SURVIVOR OF ARABIC.

Stella Carol.
Among the passengers on the Arabic was a young English girl, known as Stella Carol, who had sung before Queen Mary and appeared in concert with Sir Beerbohm Tree, Sir George Alexander, Clara Butt and Orville Harold. She was to make a tour of the United States this winter, under contract with Hugo Goerlitz, the impresario who brought Paderewski, Kubelik and Richard Strauss to this country. She has been reported saved.

She is 17 years old and her real name is Lillie Le Blond.
On Christmas eve, 1914, Mme. Amy Sherwin heard the little girl singing Christmas carols in a Hampstead street, London, to obtain money to obtain money for a present for her mother. Mme. Sherwin adopted the girl, with the parents' consent to train her to be a singer. She christened her prodigy Stella Carol.

After a year's training the girl made her debut in Queen's Hall, London. In April, 1912, when she had made a successful appearance in the London Opera House, there came a command for her to sing before the queen.
"I am delighted with your voice and am very much pleased to think you have progressed so well," Queen Mary told her after the concert. "I think you have a great future before you, and you have my best wishes for a prosperous career."

Ancient Iceland.

Iceland was founded A. D. 874 by men from Norway. In the words of John Fiske, "it was such a wholesale colonization of picked men as had not been seen since ancient Greek times and was not to be seen again until Winthrop sailed into Massachusetts bay. It was not long before the population of Iceland was 50,000. Their sheep and cattle flourished, hay crops were heavy, a lively trade—with fish, oil, butter and skins in exchange for meal and malt—was kept up with Norway, Denmark and the British Isles. Political freedom was unimpeded, justice was fairly well administered, naval superiority kept all foes at a distance, and under such conditions the growth of the new community in wealth and culture was surprisingly rapid."

Disliked Egotism.

"What's the matter with you?" asked his wife.
"I'm feeling lonely," was the reply.
"Don't you like this town?"
"I don't like this earth."
"What's the objection to it?"
"People are too egotistical. If there is anything I hate it's egotism. And when I see things going about confidently and doing things wrong, and diplomats trying all sorts of insincere tricks with complete effrontery, and lawyers seeking applause for arguing on the wrong side of a case, and everybody displaying utter selfishness without a blush, I am forced to the conviction that I am the only consistently moral gentleman on this globe. And it makes me feel lonely."—Exchange.

Ebony.

Ebony of the best quality comes from India, Ceylon and other tropical countries, where it is obtained in logs sometimes fifteen and twenty feet long. The darkness of the wood increases with the age of the tree. It is a very hard wood, and hence it is desirable for furniture making. Its unique color, too, makes it always worthy of notice, and it was combined with ivory by the Greeks to bring out its color.

Not For Her.

"I don't see how you can tolerate that man."
"Oh, but he is a foreign nobleman, my dear!"
"I don't care," said the other girl. "I'll be jiggered if I'd marry a man who does his courting with a bored air."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SECOND FLOOD VISITS ST. LOUIS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Louis, Mo.—The county of St. Louis today staggered under the weight of a second disastrous flood. Twelve lives were the toll of the last escape of the overflowing rivers in this section. All were lost along the Meramec River which was out of its banks. There were reported 100 other persons missing, and fully 2,000 families were homeless as the rise of last night's sudden rise of the Meramec. Hundreds of cottages that had lined the river were swept away and the summer residents of the frail structures escaped by narrow margins in scores of instances, a report from along the Meramec a short distance above where it flows into the Mississippi river, today stated that men in motor-boats and on rafts were still working to rescue marooned persons from tree tops and the roofs of houses that were being swept down stream.

Home Comforts of Old.

Apparently not all the queen consorts of history were lacking in a desire for creature comforts and one of them at least had sufficient inventive genius to attempt to warm up her huge barracks of a palace by having little iron carriages filled with red-hot ashes carried through her rooms to remove the chill. It was this queen, Isabeau of Bavaria, wife of Charles VI of France, who insisted upon a portable bath tub.

Keep in mind the lawn social to be held on the grounds of the Methodist Church, Tuesday, August 24, under the auspices of the Foreign Missionary Society. The tempting menu has been printed and that alone ought to be a great attraction. Come and bring your friends; have lunch with us and hear the music of the orchestra. Humor and Ill Humor.

"The sense of humor is demonstrated by the fact that many a man can operate a pile driver who can't crack a joke," says the Philadelphia Record. Yes, and the nonsense of ill humor is demonstrated by the fact that many a knocker goes around totting his little hammer and can't even crack a smile.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
AUGUST 23

The birthstone of this date is the pink Jasper.

This is the birthday of Amelie Rives, the writer. She was born August 23, 1863. A study of her life and writings would assist anyone having a similar birthday.

Another woman born under the sign of Virgo is Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward.

Virgo is the governing sign of this birthday and Mercury is the governing planet.

Virgo people have everything to live for, as they are surrounded by the most helpful planetary vibrations, but they must help themselves and not depend upon other people.

Excellent opportunities will be found in The Freeman Want Ads to secure good apartments and houses to rent. Hotels and restaurants are favorably governed this week. Watch The Freeman Want Ads regularly.

APPEAL FOR AID
FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Editor Kingston Freeman:

The citizens of Kingston are to be congratulated at the prospect of soon seeing a modern playground in operation in Rondout.

The generous action of Calvin Tompkins in allowing the city to use his vacant property on the Strand, just below the U. & D. machine shops, and the action of our very progressive mayor in securing the appropriation of $200 from the board of aldermen, enables the city to awake from its long playground sleep and with the appreciative assistance and support from the residents of Rondout, there will soon be a glorious playground dawn.

There is another playground in course of preparation back of Carl's store which will, when finished, give another opening for children in the upper part of the city.

The plan for the Rondout playground, as laid out very ably by City Engineer Cordwise, calls for the following apparatus, viz:

Three slides, one wading pool, sand piles, baseball field, volley ball court, basketball court, quiet, comfort seats for mothers, baby and other swings, see-saws, giant strides. This will draw children from an area around the playground where it is estimated at least 750 children of all ages reside.

It is the intention to have this playground supervised by male and female play directors or leaders. It has been proved by experience that unsupervised playgrounds are more injurious to children than none at all.

The appropriation made by the city does not, of course, cover the amount required to complete the equipment of this playground as proposed, and its success will depend largely upon the support given to it by the residents of Rondout. It is estimated that for the equipment and supervision of this playground as proposed, that $300 will be required, and it is earnestly hoped that the value of this civic improvement will so appeal both to the hearts and the intelligence of those interested that the additional sum required may be forthcoming.

F. J. HIGGINSON.

In City Court.

The action brought by John F. Hallinan to recover $15 for services rendered James Martin of Taylor street was tried this morning in city court before Acting City Judge Andrew Lang. Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for Mr. Hallinan and Frank W. Brooks for Mr. Martin. Mr. Hallinan during the condemnation proceedings caused by the erection of the Washington avenue viaduct drew a map of the Martin premises. Mr. Martin having a claim for damages caused by the erection of the viaduct. His charge was for the amount sued for. Mr. Martin claims the map drawn was not a satisfactory one.

MISCHIEF MAKER

Now Strong and Robust.

An adult's food that can save a baby proves itself to be nourishing and easily digested and good for big and little folks. A Brooklyn man says:

"When our baby was about eleven months old he began to grow thin and pale. This was attributed to the heat and the fact that his teeth were coming, but, in reality, his poor little thing was starving, his mother's milk not being sufficient nourishment."

"One day after he had cried bitterly for an hour, I suggested that my wife try him on Grape-Nuts. She soaked two teaspoonfuls in half a cup of warm water for 5 or 6 minutes. Then poured off the liquid and to it added a like amount of rich milk and a little sugar. This baby ate ravenously."

"It was not many days before he forgot all about being nursed, and has since lived almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. Today the boy is strong and robust, and as cute a mischief-maker as a thirteen months old baby is expected to be."

"Use this letter any way you wish for my wife and I can never praise Grape-Nuts enough after the brightness it has brought to our household."

Grape-Nuts is not made for a baby food, but experience with thousands of babies shows it to be among the best, if not entirely the best in use. Being a scientific preparation of Nature's grains, it is equally effective as a body and brain builder for grown-ups. "There's a Reason."

ELECTRIC STORM
VISITS KINGSTON

Streets Torn Up by Floods, Two Buildings Struck and Cellars on Some Streets Flooded by Heavy Downpour.

The terrific rain storm that broke over Kingston on Sunday afternoon has given the street department enough work to keep it busy for some time to come repairing the damage done to the streets by the storm and cleaning out the catch basins all over the city. The greatest amount of damage done by the storm on Sunday was on the Hasbrouck avenue hill which is almost impassable to traffic the water having torn large holes in the road bed and washed out the gutter stones and swept huge piles of stone and dirt over the sidewalks and crossings covering the top of the catch basins from sight.

While the storm was at its height the Hasbrouck avenue hill resembled a miniature Niagara Falls with a flood of waste sweeping down the hill several inches in depth. At the corner of Stuyvesant street the flood water gathered up and deposited

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 23.—"Boners" will be made and "boners" will be forgotten, but the one that O'Mara pulled in a recent Giant-Dodger game ought to be written in indelible letters on the pages of baseball history.

Jack Coombs was on second and Outfielder Myers was on first. O'Mara stepped to the plate and bunted. Catcher Doolin, of the Giants, picked up the bunt and tried for a force-out at third. He threw wildly and the ball went to left field where Burns tried to pick it up but bobbed with it long enough to permit both Coombs and Myers to score.

Where was O'Mara all this time? Probably rounding second you say? Not at all. Mr. O'Mara, having bunted refused to run. He claimed that the ball was a foul, despite the fact that Umpire Hank O'Day called it fair. Teammates from the Brooklyn bench grabbed O'Mara and hustled him toward first while Burns was fooling with the ball in left, but O'Mara broke away and ran toward the umpire.

"That ball was foul!" yelled O'Mara. "It was foul I say do you hear me?"

Then O'Mara started back toward home plate. Once again his teammates tried to hustle him to first, but O'Mara threw them off. He kept yelling: "That ball was foul." By this time both the Dodger runners had scored and the ball finally was thrown to the Giant infielder. It was relayed to first and O'Mara was put out.

Can you beat it?

Only Important "Boners" Remembered.

Fred Merkle is charged with making the most famous "boner" in the history of baseball, yet Merkle's mental lapse, in comparison with O'Mara's was as a mole-hill compared to a mountain. In baseball, the "boners" that live and become famous are those that are made at critical times. If a ball player makes a "boner" during an unimportant stage of the game, it is commented upon in the papers the next day and forgotten. But if it comes at a crucial time, his name goes thundering through the valleys of history with a label of "bonehead" attached.

Larry Doyle's Classic "Boner."

Larry Doyle, captain of the Giants, pulled a "boner" earlier in the season that was a classic. It's a season bet that 99 per cent of the fans who saw or read about it have forgotten it.

Burns, the Giant outfielder was on third. There was one out. Doyle sent a long fly to right which Moran caught. Doyle ran out the drive and was just rounding first when Moran threw the ball to the infield. In the meantime, Burns was shooting for home. There wasn't a chance in the world for a throw to catch Burns at the plate, and Moran didn't make a try for him.

The ball came sailing close to Doyle just as he was slowing up after rounding first, and Doyle, to the amazement of everyone present, reached out and caught it.

The Braves at once rushed to the umpire and claimed that Doyle's act prevented their making a play at the plate for Burns. In reality, no play had been made, but the umpire could do nothing else but rule in favor of the Braves and although Burns had scored and already was back in the dug-out, the umpire pulled Burns' run and declared him out because of Doyle's interference.

Had Burns run been allowed to stand the Giants would have won the game, as the score up to that time was tied. The Braves finally pushed another run across the plate and won the game.

Johnny Evers Made One Too.

Do you recall the "boner" that the brainy Johnny Evers pulled in the 1914 world series? Probably not, simply because the "boner" did not count against the Braves in the final analysis.

An ugly boulder was hit at Evers. It was just within reach, but too far away for him to field cleanly. One of the Athletic runners crossed the plate on the drive and another raced from second to third. Evers, peeved because he had failed to field the ball, began throwing it down into his mitt—sort of playing catch with himself.

Evers was oblivious to everything else, whereupon the Athletic runner on third shot for home and scored, almost before Evers was awake to the trick.

THE VLY.

The Vly. Aug. 23.—The most popular young fellow of Brooklyn, Robert MacCullough, who is stopping with Mrs. John Kovan for a week and three days, expects to return to his home on Wednesday or Thursday. We are all sorry to see him go, as he is such good company. Hope that he may make us a visit another year. So we all wish him good luck on his way.

Do not forget the Sunday school picnic given on the M. E. Church lawn September 1, and music will be furnished. All come out to have a good time as this is going to be the best picnic ever held in the Vly.

Miss Vesta Bush called on Mrs. Streon's Friday evening.

A number of people from this place attended the fair at Ellenville the past week.

We are sorry to hear of Irvin Jansen's colt being sick. It is said to have the lockjaw. Hope Mr. Jansen's colt may come around all right.

Wanted to Rent, Not Sell.

Through an error in placing a "to let" advertisement in the "for sale" columns of The Freeman the Rev. V. D. Mattice is being besieged with people who want to buy his home on Clinton avenue. Mr. Mattice does not wish to sell his property but is desirous of renting, but since the cent-a-word ad appeared in The Freeman he has had several offers to sell his property.

Paint?

There are two good reasons for painting often-enough or even too often. One, to look prosperous; two, to be so.

Nothing does one more credit or gives one more credit than paint, supplemented or course by what goes with it; and paint costs nothing.

True, the first cost is $5 or $8 a gallon put-on; but it saves more than that in the property, saves it from slow going down—not always slow—it drops with a jump when water gets in on wood and iron.

Dry wood and iron cost nothing, kept dry by paint.

Better paint when it needs it. Paint never goes down in the sense of being more profitable next year.

M. H. Herzog sells it—Advertisement.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Aug. 23.—Last Monday evening this community was shocked to learn that Mrs. C. H. Ganse had passed away. Her spirit winged its way to those realms of light where darkness beclouds no spirit and sickness and death are unknown. She had been ill four weeks and while her condition was known toward the last to be critical, yet it was thought there was improvement, and all hoped she would recover. This, however, was not to be. She was a member of the M. E. Church, was an active worker in the Epworth League, Junior League, teacher of the infant class for years, was an officer in Daughters of America, secretary of the W. C. T. U., was leader of two orchestras, played cornet and violin in the church and for entertainments for the church, was an active worker and chairman of musical committee in the Auxiliary Club, was also a member of Daughters of American Revolution, belonging to chapter in Kingston and for all these societies she had the best interest at heart for their advancement. The people of the Methodist Church with its various organizations feel that they have lost a loyal friend, and that she occupied a position in their esteem and served them so unremittently that they cannot grasp the thought that she is to be with them no more. Her worth was beyond estimate. A woman so faithful leaves a gap that no one will seem quite able to fill. She will be missed in every walk of life. She will always be remembered as a kind, genial and lovable woman. We can meet her no more here. Let us cherish her memory. Her life and work here affords a pattern well worthy of following. She will be sadly missed in her home by the husband and mother, whose loving hands did all that could be done. The funeral was held from the late home Thursday afternoon, the Rev. J. C. Coddington, officiating. Mrs. Bell, county president of the W. C. T. U., also spoke of her good work. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The funeral was very largely attended not only by the people from here, but also from different places through the county. The crowd to show their sympathy and appreciation of her good work among them, fully realizing she had passed from active work to well earned rest. The interment was in Highland cemetery. Bearers were members of the official board of M. E. Church.

Mrs. J. W. Feeter, a member of the U. D. Society, entertained the members of the society, which numbers 25, and she invited 25 guests. These people all met and were given a cordial welcome by the hostess, and then they went either and von upon the porch their business meeting on the lawn, while the guests remained upon the porch and chatted, and some were very industrious making fancy work, and at this time Mrs. Dr. Welker of New York sang two selections that were greatly appreciated. Some of the ladies displayed their skill at croquet. The hostess served delicious refreshments and all that were present were favorably impressed with the sociability, and after many expressions of pleasure to Mrs. Feeter, the friends left for their homes, saving the affair would long be remembered as a delightful U.
